He died of pneumonia in September, 1918, being survived by two children, besides his wife. She worked for the Red Cross during the war and was with the Victor and Engle Y. M. C. A. huts in New York.

Mr. Livermore was graduated from Yale in 1914. He served two years in France, with the rank of captain, in the 16th Artillery of the 26th Division.

Many weddings are scheduled for today, the majority of them taking place in the country. Miss Dorothy Miller, daughter of Mrs. Roswell Miller and the late Mr. Miller, who was president of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad, will become the bride of William Harold Stewart, of Webster, Mass., at the home of the bride's mother, in Milbrook, N. Y. Miss Miller is a sister of Roswell Miller, who married Miss Margaret Carnegie, daughter of the late Andrew Carnegie.

The marriage of Miss Fanny T. Baldwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Clark Baldwin Jr., to William Payne Thompson Preston will take place at 3 o'clock this afternoon, in St. Mark's Church, Mount Kisco, N. Y. A special train on the Harlem division of the New York Central Railroad will leave the "Grand Central Terminal" at 1:25 p. m. Mrs. William Farnestock gave a dance for the bride party last night at her country place at Katonah.

Miss Adelaide Sedgwick and John Munroe will be married today at the country home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. Rich Steers, Port Chester, N. Y. Miss Sedgwick is a daughter of Mrs. Harry Sedgwick.

A city wedding today is that of Miss Cleo Robertson, daughter of that Mrs. Thomas Allan Robertson, of this city, to William Kent Dupre Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Kent Dupre, of Portsmouth, Ohio, in the chantry of St.

Thomas's Church. The ceremony will be followed by a small reception at the Hotel Plaza.

Still another wedding to-day will be that of Miss Frances Ruxton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Ruxton, to William C. Hepperheimer Jr., at Cairn Hill, East Hampton, L. I.

Miss Helen Virginia McCutcheon, daughter of Mrs. Frederick McCutcheon, will be married to Louis Carreau to-day in St. Mark's-in-the-Bowdrie. The ceremony will be performed at 4:30 o'clock by the rector, the Rev. William Norman Guthrie. The bride, who will be given away by her uncle, will be attended by Miss Jessie Ruth Ridge, of Portland, Me., as maid of honor, and by Miss Katherine Stymetz Lamb and Miss Jane Barkley, of New York, as bridesmaids. Charles Valentine Snedeker will serve as best man, and Joseph Stanislaus Carreau, Leonard Anderson Sneekner, W. Stirling Mackintosh and Newell Wells as ushers. Mr. Carreau, who is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Cyrille Carreau, and his bride will live at 41 Gramercy Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon L. Harris, of Irvington-on-Hudson, are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter yesterday. Mrs. Harris was Miss Emily Bathgate Becker.

Mrs. Owen J. McWilliams and her daughter, Miss Clara McWilliams, returned from a trip to the Orient, where they spent the summer.

Mrs. John T. Pratt has arrived in town and is at the Hotel Plaza for a short stay.

Old South Amboy Hotel Burns

SOUTH AMBOY, N. J., Sept. 24.—Fire destroyed the old Hotel Ripowan here today. The place was built sixty years ago by William Clark, who amassed a fortune during pre-war days. It is believed that a tramp set the place on fire. The loss is estimated at $75,000.

Anti-Trust Laws Declared to Work Harm to Business

Chairman Colver of Trade Commission Would Enable Concerns Voluntarily to Seek Government Advice

MAPLEWOOD, N. H., Sept. 24.—The National Association of Cotton Manufacturers at the banquet which brought to a close here to-night its two days' semi-annual meeting listened to addresses by Dr. Charles A. Eaton, of New York, associate editor of Leslie's Weekly, and William B. Colver, chairman of the Federal Trade Commission. Both dwelt on general problems of business, government and taxation.

"Business is suffering under a very real hardship," said Mr. Colver. "It is this: Laws made to apply to business are of necessity inflexible, while business changes day by day. What is good for one industry is bad for another. So it is that we have a body of anti-trust laws drawn to meet certain known business sins, but in the very nature of things, being so inflexible as to work hardship."

He said it would not be wise to repeal the anti-trust laws and that it was impossible for the Federal Trade Commission to make rulings in advance.

"That leaves business in doubt," he went on, "and doubt breeds suspicion and fear and despair. Sometimes it breeds the theory of graduated taxation, which is the theory of the government to come voluntarily to the government and explain what it wanted to do. This would act as a bar to prosecution for causing out its plans."

Mr. Colver considered the excess profits tax as "a penalty upon economy, upon conservative capitalization and upon quantity production," and said that while the theory of graduated income tax was sound, it had its limits, and that limit has been reached.

The result, he said, was the turning of capital to non-taxable state and municipal bonds, with a consequent "curse of public expenditures."

Need for export trade in the cotton industry was urged by Daniel E. Dwyer and Oscar K. Davis, both of New York.

The foreign exchange situation was discussed by Dr. B. Anderson Jr., of New York.

Fast Trip for Susquehanna

To Make Speedy Turn-Around on Second Trip to Danzig

The United States Mail Steamship Company's liner Susquehanna will sail to-morrow on her second voyage to Bremen and Danzig, the free port of Poland.

So great is the demand of central and southern Europeans for passage to the United States, that the Susquehanna will make a quick turn-around on her arrival in Danzig, remaining but a few days in that port. On her last trip she brought back a full passenger list and her cargo holds were filled to capacity.

When she leaves port on Saturday she will be commanded by Captain William Bevan. While in command of the steamer Almirante, Captain Bevan rescued Mrs. A. G. Vanderbilt and her party from the wrecked steam yacht Warrior. Captain Bevan later was given command of the yacht.

Mrs. William G. Rockefeller will give a dance for her niece, Miss Isabel Rockefeller, at the Field Club to-morrow evening.

Inquiry Into Use of Veronal

In Place of Liquors Ordered
Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Commissioner of Health, said yesterday that he has instructed the Bureau of Foods and Drugs to ascertain for him whether veronal and other sleep-producing drugs were being used instead of liquors.

He referred to the recent death of a woman in the Hotel Seville caused by an overdose of veronal, and said he was anxious to learn whether its use is becoming common. Should the investigation prove it is, he said that restrictions against its sale probably would be made.

Jeremiah J. Andreas, 88, Dies at Brooklyn Home

Member of Walker's Expedition
That Captured Lower California
Had Adventurous Career

Jeremiah J. Andreas, eighty-eight years old, one of the adventurers of the early fifties in Lower California and Central America, died Thursday afternoon at his home, 429 Third Street, South Brooklyn.

Mr. Andreas was born in Stamford, Conn. When eighteen years old he sailed around Cape Horn to San Francisco, where he met William Walker, the famous American filibuster. He joined Walker's expedition of 170 men, who in 1853 captured Lower California, and later followed him with 57 men on an expedition into Nicaragua, where Walker captured Greytown and set himself up as Governor of the province. During the Civil War, Mr. Andreas was the American Consul in Greytown.

Mr. Andreas came to New York at the close of the Civil War and started an export trade at 17 Battery Place, where he remained in business until the time of his death. He leaves no near relatives.

Funeral services will be held at noon today in the chapel at 783 Carroll Street, Brooklyn. They will be conducted by the Rev. John W. Van Zanten, pastor of the Old First Presbyterian Church.

William Powers, Noted as Elephant Trainer, Dies

Animal Expert at Hippodrome
Had Followed Circus Life
Since His Boyhood

William Powers, for many years an elephant trainer at the New York Hippodrome and one of the best known animal men in the country, died last night in St. Peter's Hospital, Spuyten Duyvil, the Bronx, after a long illness. He was sixty-four years old.

Mr. Powers was known as the only trainer who did not use the hook or inflict pain in teaching his animals. He began his career with circuses as a boy, and at one time was secretary and treasurer of the Walter L. Main Circus. He later held a similar position with the Cummings Wild West Show. Mr. Powers was a close student of tropical animals.

Two of the four elephants in his troupe, specialized in training elephants and reared two of those now at the Hippodrome.

About ten years ago Powers saved many lives when a herd of twenty-four elephants in the Hippodrome stampeded during a rehearsal and fled through an unguarded door into the street.

The four elephants, his own and the Hippodrome's were brought to the country from India by Powers's father.

JOHN WILLIAM SERGENT

John William Sargent, for many years a well-known figure in the past three years private secretary to Houdini, the "Handcuff King," died yesterday in St. Vincent's Hospital after a long illness. He was sixty-seven years old.

Mr. Sargent was born near Bangor, Maine. He was founder of the Society of American Magicians and was a member of the Brotherhood of Magicians.

Mr. Sargent's home was at 728 West 181st Street. He is survived by his wife, Bertha Lord.

CHARLES STORRS COLTON

Charles Storrs Colton, a retired manufacturing jeweler of 151 Clinton Avenue, Newark, N. J., died yesterday, after a short illness, at his home in that city. He had long been associated with his brothers in the firm of Colton & Co., but retired from active business some years ago.

Mr. Colton was the son of Demas and Harriet A. Johnson Colton, and was deceased.
